SISP — SOCIETÀ ITALIANA DI SCIENZA POLITICA

I SOCI E LE SOCIE SISP

La SISP conta quasi 600 soci. Far parte della SISP significa appartenere a un'ampia comunità accademica che, a partire dall'Italia, contribuisce attivamente al dibattito scientifico internazionale. L'iscrizione annuale dà diritto all'abbonamento online alla Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica, alla partecipazione al Convegno annuale e alla possibilità di promuovere pubblicazioni e iniziative tramite la newsletter mensile e i canali digitali dell'Associazione.

IL CONVEGNO SISP

La SISP organizza ogni anno il proprio Convegno nazionale, che rappresenta il principale appuntamento della comunità politologica italiana. Ospitato a rotazione da diverse università italiane, il Convegno prevede sessioni plenarie, tavole rotonde e panel tematici con ospiti nazionali e internazionali, offrendo uno spazio a contributi in italiano e in inglese.

Nel 2027, il Convegno annuale della SISP si terrà in contemporanea con il Congresso Mondiale dell'International Political Science Association (IPSA), offrendo un'occasione unica di dialogo e scambio tra la comunità politologica italiana e quella internazionale.

GLI STANDING GROUPS

La SISP promuove la ricerca attraverso 17 Standing Group, ciascuno dedicato a una specifica area della Scienza politica, da quelle più istituzionalizzate a quelle che intercettano traiettorie di cambiamento. Gli Standing Group rappresentano un punto di riferimento per la collaborazione scientifica e l'organizzazione di workshop, seminari e attività di formazione.

LE RIVISTE DELLA SISP

La SISP pubblica due riviste scientifiche. Italian Political Science Review / Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica (IPSR/RISP), fondata da Giovanni Sartori nel 1971 e pubblicata da Cambridge University Press, è la rivista di riferimento della comunità politologica italiana. Pubblica articoli peer-reviewed in inglese, aperti a tutti gli approcci teorici e metodologici. Dal 2025, IPSR/RISP è presente anche su Substack con i canali La Discussione IPSR/RISP e IPSR/RISP Scientific Brief.
Italian Political Science (IPS), è una rivista open access e peer-reviewed, fondata nel 2007, dedicata all'analisi dei fenomeni politici contemporanei, con particolare attenzione al caso italiano anche in prospettiva comparata.

The Italian Political Science Association (SISP) is a non-profit cultural association that promotes the development of Political science in Italy, fostering collaboration among scholars at both national and international levels. Founded in 1973 as a section of the Italian Association of Political and Social Sciences, SISP became an independent association in 1981. For over forty years, SISP has served as a key point of reference for the Political science scholarly community, providing a unique space for collaboration, exchange, and dialogue across the diverse traditions and approaches within the discipline.

SISP MEMBERSHIP

SISP has nearly 600 members. Being a member of SISP means belonging to a broad academic community that, starting from Italy, actively contributes to the international scientific debate. Annual membership includes online access to the Italian Political Science Review, participation in the annual conference, and the opportunity to promote publications and initiatives through the association's monthly newsletter and digital channels.

THE SISP CONFERENCE

Each year, SISP organizes its national conference, which is the main event for the Italian Political science community. Hosted in turn by various Italian universities, the conference includes plenary sessions, roundtables, and thematic panels with national and international guests. Contributions are welcome in both Italian and English.
In 2027, the SISP Annual Conference will take place concurrently with the World Congress of the International Political Science Association (IPSA), offering a unique opportunity for dialogue and exchange between the Italian and international Political science communities.

STANDING GROUPS

SISP promotes research through 17 Standing Groups, each dedicated to a specific area of Political science, from the more institutionalized ones to those that capture trajectories of change. These groups are key hubs for scholarly collaboration, organizing workshops, seminars, and training activities.

SISP JOURNALS

SISP publishes two scientific journals. Italian Political Science Review / Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica (IPSR/RISP), founded by Giovanni Sartori in 1971 and published by Cambridge University Press, is the flagship journal of the Italian political science community. It publishes peer-reviewed articles in English, welcoming all theoretical and methodological approaches. Since 2025, IPSR/RISP has also been active on Substack with the channels La Discussione IPSR/RISP and IPSR/RISP Scientific Brief.
Italian Political Science (IPS) is an open-access, peer-reviewed journal founded in 2007, dedicated to the analysis of contemporary political phenomena, with a particular focus on the Italian case in a comparative perspective.

Benvenute, benvenuti
Di nuovo a Napoli, guardando al futuro

Napoli, si sa, è la sede di un Ateneo antico che – come la città in cui è radicata – sa guardare al futuro ed essere protagonista dei grandi processi di innovazione culturale. Non a caso proprio qui – attraverso la collaborazione tra l'Università Federico II e l'azienda di Cupertino Apple – è nata la prima Academy in Europa incentrata sullo sviluppo di applicazioni destinate a produrre un forte impatto sull'intero ecosistema.
In questo contesto Mauro Calise, Presidente della Società Italiana di Scienza Politica dal 2008 al 2010, ha contribuito tra i primi in Italia ad aprire nuove frontiere per la comprensione del digitale e a sperimentarne l'utilizzo come strumento di trasformazione del modo di fare ricerca e didattica. Sempre qui è cresciuta una generazione di ricercatori e ricercatrici che mettono il cambiamento politico e sociale al centro della propria agenda e dei propri interessi di studio. Ed è proprio la ricchezza di questo ambiente che, a distanza di 25 anni, torna ad accogliere il Convegno annuale della Società Italiana di Scienza Politica, valorizzandone il pluralismo e le molteplici articolazioni interne.
Dopo aver celebrato a Trieste i 50 anni della disciplina – e mentre già guardiamo all'appuntamento che nel 2027 ci vedrà co-protagonisti a Roma del 29th IPSA World Congress of Political Science – siamo felici quest'anno di registrare l'ulteriore crescita della nostra comunità. Siamo un insieme di studiose e studiosi fortemente internazionalizzati che, però, scelgono di non rinunciare alla propria specificità linguistica, tornando ad affiancare l'italiano alla lingua veicolare inglese. Ci impegniamo a potenziare il contributo della Scienza politica, ma siamo pronti ad accogliere gli apporti di saperi diversi. E proponiamo un modello di convegno che, mentre alimenta il prezioso sguardo specialistico delle 14 sezioni tematiche, si impegna a cercare momenti trasversali di confronto quanto più possibile condiviso su temi centrali. L'architettura del nostro appuntamento annuale si fa così più complessa, ma nell'articolarsi si raffina ulteriormente per tener conto di esigenze diverse. Gli oltre 130 panel accolgono il pluralismo dei temi e dei metodi riconoscendo la molteplicità delle piste di ricerca attraverso il contributo delle centinaia di paper selezionati. Due conferenze plenarie inducono a riflettere sulle opportunità e le sfide che investono la Scienza politica in un tempo di cambiamenti non di rado drammatici, e sempre accelerati, resi nell'insieme più complessi dal diffondersi dei processi di digitalizzazione che trasformano insieme le logiche della politica e le pratiche delle democrazie. Infine, cinque tavole rotonde semi-plenarie offrono l'opportunità di incontrarsi e confrontarsi su questioni strategiche, che interrogano diverse anime della disciplina.

Si discuterà dell'esigenza di ripensare la formazione dottorale per la Scienza politica e ci si soffermerà sulla necessità di riconoscere il contributo che gli Studi d'area offrono alla Teoria delle Relazioni internazionali, approfondendone nel contempo il ruolo decisivo per comprendere le dinamiche in atto nell'incontro/scontro tra fattori interni, logiche regionali e processi globali. Si tematizzeranno i cambiamenti nella Pubblica Amministrazione, mettendo a fuoco il contributo che la Scienza politica può dare nell'orientare tali trasformazioni anche attraverso la progettazione di una più adeguata offerta formativa. Infine, si affronterà il tema politicamente cruciale dei diritti declinandolo in riferimento a due dimensioni particolarmente critiche. In un caso, lo si farà affrontando i problemi connessi ai diritti di genere e alle sfide che li minacciano, trent'anni dopo la Conferenza di Pechino. Nel secondo caso, l'attenzione si concentrerà invece sulle sfide e i rischi che hanno investito la libertà accademica mettendola in pericolo a livello nazionale e internazionale, con modalità diverse, ma che finiscono sempre con il ridurre quello spazio critico che è alla base delle democrazie. Uno spazio che, oggi più che mai, chiede di essere difeso con determinazione e coraggio, anche collegando intorno a questo obiettivo le risorse di network internazionali, come questa tavola rotonda inizia a fare attraverso la partnership con IPSA, ECPR e SAR.
Ancora una volta, dunque, ci attende un Convegno che resterà nella nostra memoria, continuando a ispirare il nostro lavoro e a rafforzare le nostre relazioni. A Fortunato Musella e a quanti con il loro impegno e la loro intelligenza hanno reso possibile questo risultato va il grazie più sentito di tutte e tutti noi.

Franca Roncarolo

Welcome

Back to Naples, with an eye on the future

Naples is home to one of the oldest universities in the world that – like the city itself – has always looked to the future, playing a key role in major processes of cultural innovation. It's no coincidence that the first European Academy was founded here, through the collaboration between the University of Naples Federico II and Apple, with the aim of developing applications that have a significant impact on the entire ecosystem.
Within the same context, Mauro Calise, President of the Italian Political Science Association from 2008 to 2010, was among the first in Italy to explore the digital realm as a new frontier for Political Science, promoting its use as a tool to transform both research and teaching. Moreover, here, a new generation of scholars has grown, who place political and social change at the core of their agendas and research interests. It is the richness of this environment that, 25 years later, welcomes, once again, the Annual Conference of the Italian Political Science Association, offering a fertile ground for the plurality and diversity that characterize our community.
After celebrating 50 years of Political Science in Trieste – and as we look forward to 2027, when we will co-host the 29th IPSA World Congress of Political Science in Rome – this year we are happy to witness the ongoing growth of our community. We are a network of highly internationalized scholars who, nevertheless, choose not to abandon our linguistic specificity by continuing to engage in both English and Italian. We are committed to strengthening the role of political science, while remaining open to insights from other disciplines. And we therefore propose a conference model that, while cultivating the valuable specialization of our 14 thematic sections, fosters as well moments of shared reflection on central issues. The structure of our annual meeting is thus more complex, but through this complexity it becomes even more refined and responsive to a variety of needs. More than 130 panels will host a plurality of topics and methods, highlighting the many paths of research through the contributions of hundreds of selected papers. Two plenary conferences will prompt reflection on the opportunities and challenges that Political science faces in an era of dramatic and increasingly rapid changes, made more complex by the spread of digitalization processes that transform both the logics of politics and the practices of democracies. Finally, five semi-plenary roundtables will offer a chance to meet and exchange ideas on strategic issues that cut across the different "souls" of the discipline.

We will discuss the need to rethink doctoral training in Political science, and we will reflect on the importance of recognizing the contribution of Area studies to International relations theory, while deepening our understanding of the interplay between domestic, regional, and global dynamics. We will address the transformations taking place in public administration, highlighting how Political science can guide these changes, especially through the design of more effective educational programs. Finally, we will confront the politically crucial topic of rights, exploring two particularly critical dimensions. One roundtable will focus on gender rights and the threats they face, thirty years after the Beijing Conference. Another one will examine the mounting challenges to academic freedom, which is increasingly threatened at national and international levels by various processes, all contributing to the shrinking of the critical space that underpins democratic life. A space that, today more than ever, demands to be defended with determination and courage, gathering to this aim the resources of international networks, as we intend to do starting from this roundtable through the partnership with IPSA, ECPR, and SAR.
Once again, we are about to experience a Conference that will remain in our collective memory, continue to inspire our work, and strengthen our connections. To Fortunato Musella, and to all those whose commitment and intelligence made this event possible, goes our deepest and most heartfelt thanks.

Benvenuti a Napoli

Celebriamo la Scienza politica a Napoli, guardando all'era digitale in un laboratorio millenario di innovazione

Care e cari colleghi e amici, è per me un grande onore darvi il benvenuto a Napoli, in occasione del 38° Convegno della Società Italiana di Scienza Politica, intitolato Political Science in the Digital Age.

Questo appuntamento si svolge in un contesto particolarmente significativo: celebriamo i 2.500 anni dalla fondazione di Napoli, città millenaria che ha saputo attraversare la storia mantenendo intatta la sua straordinaria vitalità culturale e il suo spirito cosmopolita; festeggiamo anche gli 800 anni dell'Università di Napoli Federico II, la più antica università pubblica e laica del mondo, che continua ad essere un punto di riferimento per l'alta formazione e la ricerca.
Nel nostro ambito, ricordiamo con orgoglio anche i 25 anni dall'ultimo Convegno SISP tenutosi a Napoli, segnando un ritorno atteso e carico di significato. La SISP si presenta oggi come una comunità scientifica solida e in crescita. I numeri di questa edizione lo testimoniano: quasi 800 partecipanti, 14 sezioni tematiche, più di 15 tra plenarie e tavole rotonde, 840 paper proposti. Un programma ricchissimo, che riflette l'ampiezza degli approcci, dei metodi e degli oggetti della Scienza politica contemporanea. Che segnala allo stesso tempo l'internazionalizzazione della disciplina, con la partecipazione di studiosi provenienti da numerosi Paesi stranieri, in una città che da sempre è crocevia di civiltà, laboratorio sociale e culturale, luogo di contaminazione e innovazione.

Napoli ci accoglie con la sua bellezza unica, il suo patrimonio artistico, la sua vivace umanità. E ci invita a guardare al futuro. La decisione di dedicare il convegno alla Scienza politica nell'era digitale nasce proprio dall'urgenza di comprendere i cambiamenti in atto: quelli prodotti dalla rivoluzione tecnologica, che ridisegna i confini della conoscenza, e quelli che investono la democrazia nel suo complesso, sfidandone istituzioni e pratiche.
Le attività di pre-conference e i crash course saranno dedicati all'uso dell'intelligenza artificiale negli studi politici, mentre le lecture di Mauro Calise e Henry Farrell ci guideranno in una riflessione sui rischi e le opportunità del cambiamento digitale.
Napoli sarà, per questi giorni, non solo scenario, ma anche protagonista: una città che – con la sua stratificazione storica e la sua capacità di reinventarsi – ci ricorda che la politica è, prima di tutto, un esercizio di immaginazione collettiva.

Buon Convegno a tutte e tutti!

Welcome to Naples

Celebrating Political science in Naples, looking toward the digital era in a millennial laboratory of innovation

Dear colleagues, Dear friends,

It is a great honor for me to welcome you to Naples on the occasion of the 38th Conference of the Italian Political Science Association, entitled Political Science in the Digital Age.
This event takes place in a particularly meaningful context: we are celebrating 2,500 years since the founding of Naples –a millennial–old city that has journeyed through history while preserving its extraordinary cultural vitality and cosmopolitan spirit. We are also celebrating the 800th anniversary of the University of Naples Federico II, the oldest public secular university in the world, which continues to serve as a benchmark for higher education and research.
In our field, we proudly recall the 25 years since the last SISP Conference held in Naples, marking a long-awaited and significant return. Today, SISP stands as a solid and growing scientific community. The numbers for this edition bear witness to that: almost 800 participants, 14 thematic sections, more than 15 plenaries and round tables, and 840 papers submitted. A rich and diverse program that reflects the breadth of approaches, methods, and subjects in contemporary Political science. At the same time, it signals the increasing internationalization of the discipline, with the participation of scholars from many countries – here in a city that has always been a crossroads of civilizations, a social and cultural laboratory, a place of exchange and innovation.

Naples welcomes us with its unique beauty, its artistic heritage, and its vibrant humanity. And it invites us to look toward the future. The decision to dedicate this conference to Political science in the digital age arises from the pressing need to understand ongoing transformations: those driven by the technological revolution, which is redrawing the boundaries of knowledge, and those affecting democracy as a whole, challenging its institutions and practices.
The pre-conference activities and crash courses will focus on the use of artificial intelligence in political studies, while the lectures by Mauro Calise and Henry Farrell will guide us in reflecting on the risks and opportunities of digital transformation.
For these few days, Naples will not only be the setting but also the protagonist: a city that, with its historical stratification and its capacity for reinvention, reminds us that politics is, above all, an exercise in collective imagination.

Enjoy the Conference, everyone!
